

The Legacy
of WATER STREET
35 Years of Sharing Worcester's Jewish History

WORCESTER HISTORICAL MUSEUM

Long after the Jews had spread out to the adjacent streets and east into the neighboring Union Hill area – and even after the move to the west side of the city was well underway – Water Street remained the main artery of Worcester's Jewish community.

—Norma Feingold

"[Water Street] belongs to everyone. For some, it is a new discovery; for others it will always echo the past."

—Norma Feingold

Photograph by Daniel Farber, 1983

Please join us at

WORCESTER HISTORICAL MUSEUM
as we revisit WATER STREET,

the 1983-4 exhibit led by Norma Feingold, curator,
with Nancy Sadick, Elaine Feingold, Sally Levinson and a team of community volunteers.

Wednesday, November 28, 2018

5:30-6:30 Reception and exhibit

6:30-7 Comments and the "Water Street" video

7-7:30 Stuart Sadick, "Water Street is Alive"

Reservations 508.753.8278